This is an example of the results when the arrow next the collection is selected. Simply click on the desire record to see more information about it and to view the images if they are available.

Note – FamilySearch is in the process of digitizing all of their records and loading records daily. Check back often if your desired record is not viewable yet. Due to copyright restrictions some records are not viewable online outside of a Family History Center.

Alternate Method

Simply click on the Search button from FamilySearch's home page and you will be taken to the page shown below.

A screenshot of the 'Search Historical Records' page on FamilySearch. The page is divided into two main sections. The left section, labeled '1', is titled 'Search Historical Records' and contains several search filters: 'Deceased Ancestor's Information' with fields for First Names and Last Names; 'Search with a life event:' with links for Birth, Marriage, Residence, Death, and Any; 'Search with a relationship:' with links for Spouse, Father, Mother, and Other Person; and 'Restrict records by:' with links for Location, Type, Batch Number, and Film Number. The right section, labeled '2', is titled 'Research By Location' and features a world map. Below the map, labeled '3', is the 'Find a Collection' section with a 'Collection Title' search box and a link to 'Browse All Published Collections', which is labeled '4'.

On this page you have several ways you can search:

1. Historical records – will give you results from indexed records
2. Research By Location – simply click on the desired area on the map and a pop up will allow you to choose the specific area you want to research which will take you to the page specifically for that location which shows all that FamilySearch has to available for it (both indexed and unindexed)
3. Find a Collection – helpful if you know which collection you are specifically looking for
4. Browse All Published Collections - this link will open a new page that will allow you to filter down by location, date, and collection type
